Brigadier General William L. Doyle, Jr., USAF
Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence
Headquarters, Strategic Air Command
Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska

Bill:

My thanks for taking the time to worry me through my visit to SAC and the 544th. Needless to say the professionalism was apparent but it was also observed in a most pleasant manner. It's always good for the soul, I think, for one to visit SAC and witness firsthand the competence of highly dedicated people. All of you should be very proud for the service that you render our country.

I had a lot of fun at the dining-in and am sure the exploits there will grow in memory.

Again you have my thanks and best wishes for continued success.

Sincerely,

John N. McMahon

Mark:

Needless to say I enjoyed thoroughly my visit to Offutt last weekend. I'm grateful for the invitation to attend the dining-in -- it was a unique experience in itself. But more importantly I enjoyed thoroughly the briefings and visit I had throughout the Strategic Intelligence Wing. You should be very proud of that unit and it obviously has left an indelible mark upon SAC.

I thank you for your hospitality as well as care and feeding. Look forward to seeing you here in Washington--please don't hesitate to call.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

General Bennie L. Davis, USAF
Commander in Chief
Strategic Air Command
Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska

General Davis:

My appreciation to you for a very informative visit to SAC and the opportunity once again to experience the dedication and drive of so many people who are prepared to devote their efforts to the worthy cause of the Strategic Air Command.

My visit was very rewarding, not only in the professional sense but I enjoyed the opportunity to meet Pat and the other wives of your staff members. Needless to say the meal was delicious and the conversation most enjoyable.

In addition to the thorough discussions with the 544th, I had a lot of fun at the dining-in -- which is an experience every American ought to have. It's very gratifying to see the talent of so many capable young officers. The future of the country is in good hands.

Please don't hesitate to yell if there is anything we can do.

With best wishes for continued success.

Sincerely,

John N. McMahon

Lieutenant:

A note to thank you for your kind care and attention during my visit to Hawaii. I feel badly that I had to prevail upon your weekend but that doesn't diminish at all my gratitude for the arrangements that you made to facilitate my visit.

I hope this note finds you fresh from an exciting visit to Japan and that it met all your expectations. While there is indeed a certain thrill to the Orient, I'm sure the serenity and loveliness of Hawaii had to be a welcome relief to the rush of the Ginza. In spite of its economic boom, however, there is a certain delicacy about Japan that is quite unique to experience.

Somehow the Washington weather doesn't quite compete with what Hawaii had to offer. Enjoy it while you can.

With best wishes.

John N. McMahon

P.S. Please give my thanks to Sgt. Andru for all his help. Cheers.
